CONCEPT

01

The name of my toolkit is "Chaotic," and its central symbol is the butterfly. This is a powerful image that I personally identify with, for several reasons:

Metamorphosis and the process of change – Butterflies undergo an extraordinary transformation, which mirrors personal and artistic growth.

Migration – Some butterflies embark on long, meaningful migrations—something I relate to through my own journey.

Something fleeting that leaves a lasting impact – Despite their short lives, butterflies contribute to the creation of new life through pollination. In the same way, human life may be brief, but it holds the potential for deep impact.

The butterfly effect – Chaos can be beautiful. Small actions or changes can ripple into powerful outcomes, just like in art and life.

TIMELINE

02

I've chosen to structure my timeline around the four stages of a butterfly's life, aligning each with a phase of my personal journey as an artist:

Egg – Childhood art: the beginning, when art was simply a form of play and self-expression.

Caterpillar – A detour from art: I chose a more rational path by pursuing studies in science.

Chrysalis – A difficult period of mental health led me to discover art therapy, turning art into a form of healing and medicine.

Butterfly – I made the decision to fully embrace art and commit to an artistic career.

LOGO

The logo consists of the word "CHAOTIC" in a bold, sans-serif typeface. The letter "O" is substituted with a solid black silhouette of a butterfly, positioned centrally between the letters "A" and "T".

The logo features the word "CHAOTIC," with the letter "O" replaced by a butterfly. This element adds visual contrast and brings a sense of movement, freedom, and transformation, key concepts that define the brand's identity.

AVATAR

CHABUTTERFLYTIC

In the primary logo, the letter "O" has been replaced by a butterfly. This icon also functions as the brand's avatar, designed for use in contexts where the full logo cannot be applied due to size constraints.

COLOR VERSIONS

The color versions include the use of the logo in both positive and negative forms on a background that is one of the colors from the brand's color palette, as defined later in this brand book.

DON'T DO

CHA  TIC

CHA  TIC

The logo cannot be placed on a background that is not one of the colors from the brand's color palette.

The logo may only be used in its positive or negative versions; there are no color variations of the logo, either full or partial, including changing the color of the butterfly icon.

GRIDS

A=X

As mentioned earlier, the logo is composed of two main elements: the typography and the icon.

The structure follows a defined sequence, the first three letters of the word come first, followed by the icon (the butterfly avatar), and finally the last three letters.

SAFETY AREAS

A=X

Clear space must always be maintained around the logo to preserve its legibility and impact. This space is defined by the height of the letter “A” and should remain free of any other visual elements.

TYPOGRAPHY

TITLES

ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ
1234567890

I chose the typeface TT Modernoir for the titles because it is clean and elegant, with shapes that subtly evoke the qualities of butterflies. Its lack of excessive ornamentation allows for clear and easy reading. Furthermore, its sans-serif and minimal design visually connects with the name Chaotic and the concept of chaos, striking a balance between the organic and the structured.

TYPOGRAPHY

MAIN TEXT

1234567890

For the main body text, I will use Helvetica Neue. This choice is due to the fact that the display typeface selected for the titles lacks a lowercase version, making it unsuitable for longer passages or paragraph text. Helvetica Neue ensures readability, balance, and consistency throughout the design.

COLOR PALETTE

12

Since my brand is inspired by butterflies, the color palette will be vibrant and varied. It will be based on the colors of three butterflies: the Monarch butterfly, the Morpho butterfly, and the Malachite. Each butterfly represents one of the three sections of the toolkit—photography, video, and graphic design.

PATTERNS

The patterns in my toolkit are inspired by the wing patterns of various butterfly species. Each butterfly has been carefully selected to represent a specific category or theme within my work, serving not only as a visual reference but also as a symbolic element. These patterns bring texture, individuality, and cohesion to the overall design language.

APPLICATIONS

For the applications, I followed a symbolic structure:

The main packaging takes the form of a flower, representing the place where butterflies lay their eggs.

Inside this flower are the different applications, each corresponding to one of the four petals, numbered 1 through 4. These numbers reflect the chronological stages of the butterfly's life cycle, which I have aligned with different phases of my artistic journey.

APPLICATIONS

Each application is associated with one of these stages:

Stickers – Egg stage – representing childhood and the playful, early beginnings of creativity.

Posters about change and mistakes – Caterpillar stage – reflecting the rational phase when I explored science and embraced transformation.

Memory game – Chrysalis stage – symbolizing art therapy and the introspective, healing process through drawing.

Polaroids (photography), palette book (graphic design), film roll (video) – Butterfly stage – capturing the full emergence into creative expression across multiple mediums and showing my actual work.
